

Reader Submission Terms

You have read, understood and agreed to the following terms with respect to the content (“Content”) you’re submitting to Education Week. These terms govern your legal rights and obligations, so please read them carefully before submitting your Content.

By submitting your Content, you agree that:

1. Your Content is truthful and accurate and does not contain any false or misleading information or implications. It is your original work product borne out of your own experiences and is based on your personal knowledge. You have not plagiarized the Content, nor have you infringed on anyone’s copyright, trademark or other intellectual property rights. Your Content also does not infringe anyone’s privacy or publicity rights, nor does it disclose anyone’s confidential information without their advance consent. It also does not violate any local, state, national or international law.
2. Your Content is not libelous or defamatory, obscene, pornographic, profane, vulgar, sexually explicit, malicious or hateful. It does not degrade others on the basis of gender, race, ethnicity, national origin, religion, sexual orientation or disability. It also does not threaten or advocate any illegal or violent acts, nor does it intimidate or harass anyone.
3. You have not misrepresented your identity and are not impersonating anyone else. The identifying information you have provided to us in connection with your Content is fully accurate and truthful, and you agree that we may take reasonable steps to confirm the accuracy of your identity and Content. You are over the age of 18.
4. Your Content does not include any images or likenesses of minors (individuals under the age of 18). If there are any identifiable minors in the Content you submit, you must obtain the minor’s parental consent prior to submitting the Content.
5. Your Content does not contain a solicitation of any kind, nor does it contain advertising on your behalf or on behalf of any other person or entity.
6. Your Content will not harm our site in any way, including but not limited to the transmission of viruses, spyware, Trojan horses, worms, corrupted data or other malicious software potentially damaging to the operation of our site.
7. You grant us a royalty-free, unconditional, perpetual, irrevocable, non-exclusive worldwide license to your Content. Pursuant to this license, we are permitted to use your Content in any manner we deem appropriate, including but not limited to publishing, hosting, reproducing, distributing, selling, syndicating, adapting, translating, editing, reformatting, performing and/or displaying the Content in all media now in existence and hereafter developed, including but not limited to electronic databases or online networks. We may sublicense any of these rights to third parties, who may benefit from your Content. You represent and warrant that you have the right to grant this license to us.
8. We have the right to modify your Content in any manner we deem necessary or appropriate, including substantive edits and/or edits for length or style. We have no obligation to publish any Content you submit. We also may remove your Content once published at our discretion.

9. You will indemnify Education Week and its affiliates, subsidiaries and their directors, officers, managers, employees, shareholders, agents and licensors, from and against losses, expenses, damages and costs, including reasonable attorneys' fees, resulting from your Content.

10. You have read and agree to abide by our User Agreement and Privacy Policy.